literary lunch

BUBBLE BOYS

Get a taste of what goes on in the world of professional sport…

Michael Blucher, the author of “Bubble Boys”, will talk over lunch about what really goes on in the world of professional sport. The personalities, the pressures, the precious behavior and of course the pitfalls, explained in a way you’ve never heard, nor contemplated before.

From the flirtatious females trying to pounce on them, the managers trying to fleece them, right through to the corporate malingers, obsessed with parading athletes around in public to make themselves look important, Michael will provide a unique insight into life inside the “sporting bubble”.

He will also touch on some of the less obvious lessons we can take from the world of professional sport, and apply to our own very similar - yet vastly different - circumstances.

.

WHEN

WHERE

RSVP

Most people have an opinion - a perception – about professional athletes, and the life they lead, but they also want to know the truth. This is an honest, upfront and a very accurate account of what really goes on in professional sport. You’ll be amazed at Michael’s insights!” - Darren Lockyer

www.bubbleboysbook.com.au